Tai Chi Foundations

Turning Inward for the Season. As the autumn cool settles in and we move indoors to respect the changing weather, our practice shifts inward as well.

This season, Tai Chi Foundations explores Baduanjin (The Eight Silken Movements) - one of history's most celebrated and accessible Qigong routines. Originating over 800 years ago during the Song Dynasty, this gentle sequence of eight deliberate movements coordinates mindful breathing with physical posture to promote smooth circulation, balance, and overall vitality.

Whether you are looking to ease stress, improve joint mobility, or cultivate a grounding daily routine, Baduanjin offers a deeply restorative experience. Those joining us for the challenging fun will learn both seated and standing variations of this accessible yet demanding exercise set. No prior experience is required - movements are low-impact and easily adapted for either standing or seated practice.

Step out of the autumn chill, turn your focus within, and discover the quiet strength of moving meditation.
